SSR TRIANGLE

Ed Kaminsky, founder of SportStar Relocation, has found that the vast majority of his athlete-clients desire a home within a geographical triangle that includes their practice facility, stadium/arena and the airport. Proximity within or near the "SSR Triangle" has been critical for athletes seeking to balance the demands of their personal and professional lives. The company's national network of Real Estate agents educates athletes and their families about the local community to ensure a seamless relocation and to expedite the process of making a new house and city—a "home."
